

- Webpage will serve as portal to help veterans understand benefits they deserve –

Washington, D.C. – Congressman John Hall (NY-19) launched a new webpage today that aims to help veterans understand the benefits they are eligible for and provides contact information for organizations that help veterans.

The webpage can be found at www.johnhall.house.gov/vetsservices.

“I’m happy to provide this service to veterans who may be confused about the benefits available to them,” Congressman Hall said. “Too many of the veterans I speak with are struggling to find answers to their questions about benefits. This webpage will be a starting point for them to search for the programs available to them.”

Congressman Hall serves as Chairman of the House Veterans’ Affairs Subcommittee on Disability Assistance and Memorial Affairs. From this position, Congressman Hall advocates on behalf of veterans to make sure their dedication, honor and sacrifice are not forgotten.

The webpage includes information for veterans on benefits, healthcare, education, jobs and more. The page also provides contact information and websites for local and national organizations that help veterans.
